Formulas must be written by a formula editor in Microsoft Equation or similar. (main symbols of the formula - 10 pt, italics; their indices - 8 pt, italics). If there is more than one formula in the text, they must be numbered. The formula number is written in curly brackets at the level of the formula line, on the right side of the sheet. In simple fractions, it is recommended to use a slash (/) instead of a horizontal line. The level of statistical significance, which can be used without further explanation, is recorded as $p < 0.05$.

$$a = 2b / c$$

Where a - description of the first variable pcs. (if you need);

b - description of the second variable pcs. (if you need);

c - description of the third variable pcs. (if you need).
